

Nursakinah Binti Suardi

Dr Nursakinah Suardi is a senior lecturer at School of Physics, Universiti Sains Malaysia under Medical Physics section. She earned her Bachelor of Applied Science (Medical Physics), Master of Science (Medical Physics) and PhD (Medical Physics) from Universiti Sains Malaysia. She passionately involves in academic and research activities. Currently, she is teaching undergraduate and postgraduate under Medical Physics programme as well as supervising postgraduate research students. Her primary research interests mainly are biophysics, laser therapy and photobiomodulation. She has been awarded six grants as a primary investigator (national, university and industry), published more than 40 peer-reviewed academic papers, graduated total of 7 research students (PhD and Msc) and 7 ongoing PhD students under her supervision. She was appointed as Programme Chairman Medical Physics from 2019 until 2021. She is also involved as a Member of the Committee under Malaysian Allied Health Professional Council and Committee of Medical Physics Programme Standard Development under Ministry of Health. She also served as an Adjunct Lecturer at Center for Food and Technology and Research (CEFTR), Department of Physics, Benue State University, Makurdi Nigeria.