

Terumasa Takemaru is a Clinical Marketing Development Manager specializing in MRI applications for Radiation Therapy.

With extensive experience in advancing the use of imaging technologies, he plays a key role in bridging clinical needs with technological innovations.

His work focuses on supporting the integration of MRI into radiation oncology practices, contributing to improved accuracy in treatment planning and patient outcomes.

At the forefront of these advancements, Terumasa collaborates closely with healthcare professionals and institutions to drive innovation and adoption in the field.